

LENZI

HEY THERE.

My name is Chris Lenzi, and I'm a graphic designer. Above all, I consider myself a minimalist. I love to explore creative and innovative solutions for design problems using as little information as possible. Process and ideation play a huge role in how I design. As a student of graphic design for the last seven years with a growing portfolio of real-world freelance work, I've learned to adapt my design aesthetic for the issue at hand, always working to find the most effective resolution.
